

Elise Ellick is the teen counselor in the division of adolescent medicine at MetroHealth. She came to MetroHealth after conducting a country wide national pilot project in teen pregnancy prevention sponsored by Planned Parenthood of Greater Cleveland. She was the director of the Adolescent Consortium of Northeast Ohio at CASE, a regional based collaborative for advocacy on behalf of adolescent health.

As a certified trainer and as the former assistant director of The Cleveland Training Institute, a National Institutes of Health funded project, she oversaw the delivery of training and consultation for Ohio and Midwest based programs for those serving populations at risk. She served as one of three Cleveland judges for Cleveland Scenarios USA, Inc., a youth leadership, advocacy and self-expression city- wide contest through social media that culminates with a film premiere at The Cleveland International Film Festival. She is on the advisory board of Your Teen Magazine. She has been on the ethics committee at MetroHealth for the past 15 years. She lives in Shaker Heights.